

Name of the victim: JOSE MORALES

Name of the beneficiary: FELIX MARTINEZ

Felix, a 34-year-old Mexican woman, came to the US on September 11, looking for her companion, Jose Morales, who was working in a pizza place at the Twin Towers. He had arrived on June looking for better opportunities to support his family, for whom he was the only resource or income.

Felix left her four children in Mexico, and she gave birth to a baby girl on January 25, 2002; this is their fifth child. She doesn't speak English, she cannot read and write. She has been unable to open a case of Missing Person for Jose, due to the lack of documents to prove he was there, and her common-law status makes her ineligible for any of the benefits.

Felix went back to the small village with her family. With the generous support of different donors Asociación Tepeyac was able to provide financial support, which was very significant for the family. They were able to buy a land-plot, building a very small home with furniture, and a business for selling food.

Name of the Victim: Juan Ortega

Name of the Beneficiary: Luz Maria Mendoza

Juan Ortega 31, was working at the World Trade Center doing deliveries for the Fine and Schapiro Restaurant at South Tower. His family lives in Jonacatepec, Morelos in Mexico. He was the only support for his three children and his wife Luz Maria Sanchez. During the last 9 months, Juan's family has been able to improve a small family business in the local market, located in a shantytown in Mexico [thanks to the help that Asociación Tepeyac has been able to provide]. His wife has been an excellent administrator of resources. She improved significantly the small clothing sales business by introducing new products. Currently, she has the largest stand in the local market, from which she gets enough funds to sustain herself, her mother-in law and her three children. The children have moved up to new schools given the fact that the eldest child has begun the tenth grade; he must go everyday to the closest city because in his small town there is not a continuing school for him. He would like to study in a university career and, one day he become a Doctor.

Name of the Victim: Victor Antonio Martinez Pastrana^f

Victor Antonio Martinez Pastrana, 38, died at the WTC attack last September 11th. The surviving family; three children and his wife, Rosario Arrazola are still living in Puebla. They were left without support. Mr. Martinez was the main sustainere for the family in Puebla, he came to US 3 years ago and was working for a restaurant at one of the Towers. The family in Puebla found out that he was missing after September 11th. Victor Antonio Martinez was an undocumented worker and there is no proof that could help the family assure their future with the benefits that the rest of the Victims' families are entitled to.

After the terrible situation that the family had to face, Mrs. Arrazola, and the oldest child have been having problems with their health. Since Victor Arturo was little, he has had a cardiovascular deficiency, and these circumstances have make their health worse. The lack of money, and the grief has not allowed them to have a normal life since then.

Although it has been very difficult for the family to overcome the situation, they have been had the support of Asociacion Tepeyac and are in the process of recovery, economically and emotionally. For several months there has been a caseworker who is permanently in Mexico and has kept a close relationship with them. Victor's family is being visited in their city and supported by a caseworker who is assisting directly in local concerns. Asociacion Tepeyac has been working to set up two small businesses for them. One business is a public Internet café with 6 computers, 1 scanner, 2 printers and other additional services. The second one is a small diner for selling Mexican typical food. The first business was the dream of Victor and the main reason he came to work to the US. He planned this project but unfortunately he could not achieve it. Today his family is trying to make the project succeed and improve their life conditions.
